

Connectyx announces MedjetAssist will include MedFlash in its new Plus program

Palm City, Florida, May 29th, Ronn Schuman, CEO of Connectyx Technologies (OTCPK:CTYX), announced today that Connectyx has signed a contract with to include MedFlash in the enhanced Plus program offered by MedjetAssist ("Medjet"). "The alliance of Connectyx and Medjet will allow Medjet to provide MedFlash as a value added service to their Plus customers as well as other member categories. It will be a great promotion for Medjet that will help them grow their Plus membership category,," states Ronn Schuman. "We are confident that MedFlash will provide a significant benefit to MedJets' customers and we are also pleased to offer Medjet's membership program to our existing customers as a value added service."

"We created our new Plus program because travelers wanted added protection whenever and wherever they traveled," said Roy Berger, president of Birmingham, AL based MedjetAssist. "With the risks inherent in international travel these days, this new program will help further protect travelers from injury, illness and other factors beyond their control."

About Connectyx www.connectyx.com www.mrnmanager.com www.med-flash.com

Connectyx Technologies (OTCPK: CTYX) currently has two top tier Medical product divisions that are revolutionary in each business category – MedFlash and MRN Manager. Both MedFlash™ and MRN Manager™ have broad appeal in their respective markets and are in the most sought after technology growth sectors: Personal health records and Revenue cycle management.

MedFlash is a Personal Health Record device and has no equal in the marketplace. It should become ubiquitous by virtue of its simplicity and potential life saving features. MedFlash began as a simple 128MG flash drive with embedded software that enabled the owner to control their personal health information. The company has now developed a web based portal that will enable its owners not only to keep medical history but gives them the ability to download MRI's, Xrays, and a host of other medical and life style information all on a 1 GB flash drive that can plug into any computer and or be accessed directly from the Internet. MedFlash has experienced significant sales increases in the last 6 months due to a number of new customers. MedFlash has the price point that appeals to all age sectors and its distribution is not limited to the retail marketplace. MedFlash is being introduced to charitable organizations for fundraising efforts, has corporate logo appeal, can be sold via physicians practices, through insurance companies, given away as a corporate benefit, valuable to the travel industry for clients leaving the US, has the ability to be translated into many languages and the list goes on.

Our second medical product – MRN - launched its initial robust claims management software, which specializes in reprocessing claims. Last year alone MRN successfully handled over 10 Million claims. The product has been tested through licensing agreements and now has proof positive that the product works in a variety of settings: medical offices, large multi physician practices, hospitals, clinics, medical mail order, and large medical billing companies. Throughout 2007 and into early 2008 the company made significant modifications which will enhance the product. Management is reviewing their business model to offer its service on a transactional basis which could bring significant revenue to the company. It should have a significant benefit for clients, typically saving them thousands of dollars during its periods of use.
